LOST LOVE.

Who wins his love shall lose her,
Who loses her shall gain,
For still the spirit woos her,
A soul without a stain,
And memory still pursues her
With longings not in vain!

He loses her who gains her,
Who watches day by day
The dust of time that stains her,
The griefs that leave her gray,
The flesh that yet enchains her
Whose grace hath passed away!

Oh, happier he who gains not
The love some seem to gain.
The joy that custom stains not
Shall still with him remain,
The loveliness that wanes not,
The love that ne'er can wane.

He dreams she grows not older
The lands of dream among.
Though all the world wax colder,
Though all the songs be sung,
In dreams doth he behold her
Still fair and kind and young.
—Andrew Lang.

FLOWER TRADE ABBREVIATIONS.

Short and Expressive Names For Popular Flowers as Used by Florists.

That florists and florists' clerks have a language of their own when it comes to the making up of orders is an interesting fact not appreciated by the young man who wishes to send a bunch of violets or roses to his best girl, or the father of a family in swelldom who receives a large monthly bill for the decoration of his parlors. Respectfully and deferentially does the florist stand by a customer and murmur the longest floral names without abbreviations.

But when he and his assistants are alone horticultural titles are clipped short. The most cherished and expensive blossoms, no matter how great their dewy fragrance may be, are treated with scant respect.

It is "Hey, Jimmy, a dozen of those 'mums,'" a voice will cry. "And don't forget that lot of 'tubies' for Mrs. Smith-Smith." Indeed the ardent lover of blossoms would be disenchanted if she listened to the talk of the trade for a brief half hour.

There are no rules of abbreviation, and some of the longest floral names are never clipped, but spoken exactly as they are written. Even the most ignorant florist's clerk speaks precisely of hyacinths, geraniums, mignonette, lilacs, violets, poppies, magnolias, orchids, ivy, jasmine, phlox and carnation pinks. His abbreviations are logical as a rule, and oftener than otherwise he makes use of the first or last sound of a name.

Here is a brief sample of the Florists' Ready Guide:

Chrysanthemums, "mums;" tuberoses, "tubies;" lilies of the valley, "valleys;" Jacqueminot roses, "jacks;" bride roses, "brides;" primroses, "prims;" Maria Louise violets, "Louisas" goldenrod, "rods;" stephanotis, "steps;" cape jasmine, "capes;" japonicas, "japs;" amaryllis, "rills;" China asters, "chinas;" morning glories, "glories;" lemon verbena, "lemons;" narcissus, "cissus;" rhododendrons, "dendrons;" immortelles, "everlastings."—New York World.

The Postal Whistle.

New York undoubtedly has an admirable mail service. A city letter sent on its way within business hours will get there almost as quickly as a telegram, and not infrequently quicker than a messenger. The deliveries and collections are frequent, the carriers careful and courteous, and blindly directed missives are generally delivered to their owners after a very short hunt. How letters bearing only the name of comparative strangers are promptly deposited in office or flat boxes surprises strangers. When the postman drops a letter in your house box, or deposits paper or packet on the tiles beneath it, he pulls your bell and whistles. These postal whistles are similar to those used by the police. So when the bell jingles and the whistling follows there's no need to open the door or wonder who's there. You know all about it. The postal whistle could be adopted with benefit elsewhere.—New York Letter.

An Illinois Girl In Washington.

I sat next an Illinois girl in the house gallery and marked the manner of her speech, which was strange to a Washington ear. She did not slight a single "r." The broad English "a" eastern people affect was unknown to her. She asked me what time congress "took up" and when it "let out." She spoke of a brook in her home and called it a "branch." She said it seemed so funny to get six car tickets for "2 bits," and she told me she had not attended the opening of congress because she "could not get to go," but that she meant to hear just as many great speeches as she could "get to hear." Then she excused herself and went away, as she said she had "some trading to do for ma."—Washington Post.

Tying the Knot.

One part of the wedding ceremony among the Babylonians was very significant. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride and another from the garment of the bridegroom and tied them into a knot, which he gave the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.

A Different Question.

Father (impressively)—Suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you, my boy?

Irreverent Son—I'd stay here. The question is, What would become of you?—West Chester Critic.

DRUGGISTS MUST HAVE GOOD NOSES.

Missouri Pharmacists Preparing to Have a Smelling Contest.

In Missouri druggists are preparing to hold a big smelling contest at the annual meeting of the State Pharmaceutical association next spring. That pill roller who can name the greatest number of drugs just by smelling of them will carry off a cash prize of $50. It will probably be the first contest of the sort ever held, though druggists have always recognized the value of a well trained proboscis in determining the nature of chemicals.

Chicago pharmacists are both interested and amused over the prospects for a smelling contest. There are few drugs, common or rare, that are absolutely odorless, and the test of smell is a recognized one among all pharmacists.

"A druggist must have a good nose," said one. "The odor of drugs is part of the test in all pharmaceutical colleges. A druggist will test drugs first by his nose, then by sight, then by taste. Then he will experiment in chemical reactions. A great many rare drugs, like cumarin, can be determined by odor. Cumarin is derived from the tonka bean and has its distinctive odor. Other drugs, like carbolic acid in crystals, are easily distinguished. Even substances like oxalic acid, by setting up a characteristic irritation in the nostrils, may be determined. Sodium hyposulphite has a faint smell discernible by the educated nose, and nitrate of silver has a faint but distinctive smell. The cyanide salts have an odor like peach or cherry stones—the prussic acid smells. All the salts of acetic acid are easily determined, and iodine and bromine salts have also their distinctive odors. On the other hand, the sodium salts are hard to distinguish. Hydrastine has no smell, and you cannot distinguish the salts of mercury by its smell. As for the tinctures, they are more easily distinguished by odor than the salts. Nearly all of them have a decided smell. Take arnica, camphor, peppermint, cardamon, even a layman can distinguish them by their odors."

Druggist D. R. Dyche says: "It is rather a comical idea—that of a smelling contest. Probably the pharmacists in Missouri have better noses than we have here in Chicago. This lake air is not beneficial. You could probably run up a list of 200 or 300 chemicals that could be determined by smell alone. Take common drugs like angelica root, benzoin, rose leaves, even opium, sassafras, annis, peppermint, cherry bark, spearmint and the many of the aromatic oils and fluid extracts like thyme or buchu or senna—any one not an expert can easily determine them. If taste and smell could both be employed, an enormously big list could be prepared."—Chicago Tribune.

THE VANDAL IN EGYPT.

Temples and Idols Being Ruthlessly Destroyed For Building Material.

W. M. Flinders-Petrie, in a letter to the London Times, bewails the destruction of monuments and historical records which is going on in Egypt. He says that "every season sees buildings ruthlessly destroyed for the sake of materials and a host of objects plundered by the natives from towns and cemeteries in order that they may be scattered without name or record among the tourist flock. Even those objects which pass into museums have lost most of their importance and of their value in losing all record of their original place and circumstances.

"The laws of Egypt may be excellent in theory, but in practice it is well known that hundreds of persons join in this destruction—yet no man is punished for it. There is, then, the most urgent need of saving all that is possible by complete and careful excavation, in which the history and meaning of every object shall be traced and recorded as it is found. To any person not acquainted with the practical work of excavation it might seem that so long as things are not actually destroyed it does not matter whether it be an Arab or a trained observer that may find them. But there is generally more history involved in the position and details of a discovery than in the object found. Fossils are worth but little if their strata are unknown.

"More scientific material has been destroyed than preserved in many or most excavations, even by Europeans and Egyptologists." He then proceeds to solicit for the Egyptian research account, which, he says, has been established "not to undertake great clearances or exploits in the country, but to fit men for work of the highest class archæologically, and at the same time benefit our knowledge and our museums as far as may be by means of their excavations."

Patriotic Boston.

Of late the people of Boston and vicinity have been receiving letters through the Boston postoffice with a new cancellation mark on the stamp that resembles the American flag. The design consists of a series of curved lines instead of the five long parallel lines which have been in common use.

Postmaster Coveney said that the "new machines were necessary, and so was the design. It is a new feature, and at present it is only used in the Boston postoffice, as it has not yet been adopted by the large offices throughout the country. It is a cancellation mark that can be called thoroughly patriotic, for it resembles the old American flag. It is a new idea, not much over a month old."

Exercise For Heat.

When you feel chilly, don't crouch over the radiator or the register and don't put on a wrap. Get up and move briskly about for a few moments until you have started up an invigorating current of blood in your veins. If possible, take this exercise in the open air. If this is not possible, let it be about your rooms. But, in one way or another, take it.

THE WILD HORSES OF NEVADA.

They Are a Nuisance to the Ranchers and Are Being Shot Wherever Found.

R. L. Fulton of Reno, for a number of years agent of the land department of the Central Pacific railroad, is at the California and tells a strange story of the myriads of wild horses now roaming over Nevada and of the steps that have been taken to get rid of them.

"There are now in Nevada more than 200,000 head of these horses," said Mr. Fulton, "and they are increasing so fast that they are getting to be a great nuisance. Cattle and sheep owners are killing them wherever they can.

"The last legislature passed a law permitting any one to shoot any stallions that were found running wild, and the ranchers have in consequence been killing them off wherever they could. They do this as well to get rid of them as to keep the wild horses from increasing.

"The trouble is they are eating off the grass so that sheep and cattle owners are having a tough time of it in certain sections. More than this, the stallions are in many cases leading off the domestic horses from the ranches. So the ranchers have it in for them and are making it very lively. Many is the stallion they have killed, and some of them are very fine too.

"And what do you suppose they do with them afterward? Why, they turn them over to the swine to eat. They figure that in this way each stallion is worth about $2, which is the top notch figure that can be realized from them. Horses are very cheap now the world over, but probably not since the settlement of America have horses been so cheap as they are in Nevada.

"Most of the wild horses are in the neighborhood of Elko and Iron Point. A few years ago there was turned loose from the Evans ranch, near Iron Point, a fine thoroughbred stallion. He joined the neighboring bands of wild horses and could not be got back again.

"The result has been that the quality of the herds was greatly improved. He left many colts that were much superior to the old stock. The various bands have increased much since then. While many of the horses would not be called first class, others are very fine, and all are as tough as pine knots and as fleet as there is any use in having horses."—San Francisco Examiner.

LADY BROOKE'S CLOAK.

The Fact That It Cost £800 Has Stirred English Public Opinion.

A healthy sign of the influence of public opinion upon the wealthy classes was given lately. Some time ago the Countess of Warwick, better known perhaps as Lady Brooke, a dear friend of the Prince of Wales, lost, or there was stolen from her, a magnificent sable cloak. The police description of the missing garment gave its value as £800.

Several democratic newspapers of no particular influence made unkind comments upon the extravagance of a woman who spends so much money for one article of dress. Some even went into statistics as to the number of poor people who could be fed a week for £800.

Time was when any countess, or, for the matter of that, any woman, in this country would have gloried in the mere cost of her garments and would have been made happy by every newspaper recording it, but even aristocracy is sensitive to such matters now. The Countess of Warwick was quite shocked at the idea that anybody supposed that she squandered £800 upon herself and caused this paragraph to be inserted in the papers:

"The cloak was a wedding present. I should have thought it wicked to have given so much for a single garment when there is so much distress and misery prevalent."

The letter of disclaimer does her ladyship credit, and it is only just to state that since her husband succeeded to the earldom she has set an example to her order by the way in which she has looked after the poorer tenantry on the extensive estates in Essex and elsewhere. The Earl of Warwick, like most landowners, has been hit hard by the general agricultural depression, but the majority of territorial magnates made the reduction in their previous bloated incomes an excuse for neglecting the poor altogether.—London Letter.

CURIOUS FRENCH LAW.

It Is No Offense to Attempt to Commit a Crime When You Don't Succeed.

A curious application of the old theory of impossible crime was made last week by the court of criminal appeals at Paris.

Two pickpockets named Fargant and Monty were arrested some weeks ago near a bureau d'omnibus in the exercise of their profession. Fargant watched, ready to receive the stolen goods, while his comrade explored the pockets of a man in the crowd. Luck was not with the thieves, however, for the victim's pockets were absolutely empty.

The Ninth chamber of the criminal courts condemned Monty to six months' and Fargant to 13 months' imprisonment. They appealed and were both acquitted by virtue of the antique adage that there could be no theft where there was nothing to steal.

This is similar to a case which happened in Paris not long ago of a man who fired a load of buckshot through a window at a bed where he believed an enemy was sleeping. The bedclothing was riddled with shot, but the bed was empty, the occupant fortunately having risen not long before. The court of appeals also decided in this instance that there was no case, as murder was manifestly impossible, and the would be assassin was acquitted. So, according to French law, it is not always true that the intention is equivalent to the act.

EMANCIPATION FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley Railroad is now an assured fact and the people of California are about to be emancipated from the railroad thraldom, of the Southern Pacific of Kentucky. The magnificent subscription of $700,000 to the stock of the new company by Claus Spreckles and his sons has been followed by other subscriptions varying between $50,000 and $5,000, which has brought the total amount already subscribed up to $1,500,000. The stockholders of the new railroad, which will be built and operated as a rival against the exactions of the Southern Pacific, are for the most part wealthy realty owners and merchants of San Francisco, many of whom can draw their checks and have them honored, too, for as large a sum of money as can Collis P. Huntington, its President, or any of the directors of the Southern Pacific of Kentucky. This being so, even those of the dullest comprehension can see that when the new road is built, which does not now admit of a doubt, the Southern Pacific will have a formidable rival in the field competing for the freight and passenger traffic between San Francisco and the great San Joaquin Valley.

For a number of years San Francisco has been on the decline as one of the leading cities of the United States. Once a great wholesale mart, it has been rapidly deteriorating into a retail trade city for a number of years. A case in point. Twenty years ago Sansome, Battery and other business streets of the metropolis were lined with wholesale clothing houses and to-day we doubt if there are half-a-dozen in the entire city. What has been the fate of the wholesale clothing trade has been the fate of other wholesale houses, and as a result real estate values in San Francisco have come down to bed-rock prices. It is claimed by its merchants and real estate owners that the discrimination of the Southern Pacific against that city has brought about that result. If that be true, considering the vast wealth of its people which has been at stake all these years, it is only a wonder that its moneyed men have held off so long in throwing off the yoke of oppression.

The building of a rival railroad to the Southern Pacific by San Francisco millionaires means a fight of capital against catital—that is to say, it will not be a fight between an impecunious railway corporation as against the powerful Southern Pacific for the railroad business of California. In this struggle San Francisco will not only be benefitted, but the entire Northern and Central portions of California as well, because this new line will certainly develop into a transcontinental system, with feeders reaching out in every direction. When the new road is in operation a new era will have dawned upon the dropping industries of our once fair and productive State.

SENATOR GEO. G. PERKINS has placed us under obligations this week for a copy of his great speech in favor of the Nicaraguan Canal and American wages for the farmer and workman. The speech was delivered in the United States Senate on the 19th of last month and stamps the Senator as being American to the backbone.

FACT AND FANCY.

BY JEDWIN NEBWAME.

The flood gates of Heaven have closed for a time. Sol smiles upon us again and all are glad. It is now that we anticipate the Spring and signs are on every hand. The alder tassels are hanging from the naked limbs and the willows are pushing forth their downy buds, some of the flowers more venturous than their mates have blossomed forth to tempt the smiles of Spring.

Sequestered in this quiet little corner of the world we are prone to forget the activity that bustles around us. We know that Lexow committees are investigating, that Judge Wallace is sentencing, that legislators are legislating, but some how we do not feel these things. Yet how vitally interested are the actors themselves. You should have seen Cohen sentenced by Judge Wallace to eight years in prison for telling a lie and then you would feel. I tell you it stiffens a man's back bone and draws his upper lip to hear the majesty of the law assert itself. One poor craven wretch who had forged another's name went up to receive sentence. Ah! there was a difference between prisoner and Judge. The former cowered in his guilt and when asked why sentence should not be passed upon him he could only mumble inarticulate words and, failing in his speech, hung limp upon the Judge's sentence, "Two years." I heard the law assert itself, but saw the prisoner stagger, fall.

Such scenes work for our betterment and I think it a good tonic to visit court rooms when men are sentenced.

Our Governor is a man of whom we may well be proud. It takes courage to face corruption and that is just exactly what Governor Budd did when he removed Gunst. Dan Burns was behind Gunst, and Burns is corruption personified. But we scarcely know our Executive as yet. We all remember Pope's famous lines:

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

What a commentary on the modern civilization it is that there should be this instinctive distrust of those in authority. When our best and most honorable men are elected to serve the people who is there but has a secret misgiving, a fear that he may fall. To state the plain truth honest men are becoming scarce. We have theorized and philosophised so long that the anchors of conduct seem to be in the dim and distant past. To be and to be known as a thoroughly honest man is capital, is warrant of success. Dishonesty is the root of all our corruption—the late election frauds, the absconding cashiers, the police rotteness, the divorce courts, etc. In truth an "honest man is the noblest work of God."

If Governor Budd wishes to remain in the confidence of the people of this State the principle for him to work on is honesty, and then if he makes mistakes he will, we trust, be forgiven, for "to err is human, forgive divine."

This moralizing is somewhat to my taste, but I doubt its worth, for we all have consciences and we need no teacher to know right from wrong; so let us turn to the outer world.

The report of the State Board of Examiners written by its Secretary, Geo. E. Pratt, is concise and readable. In it one may find much interesting and valuable information concerning the internal economy of our State.

The daily press has informed us that the Governor has signed the bill removing the bounty on coyote scalps. This is a commendable action. In the report is the following: Between May 30, 1891, and September 30, 1892, $190,275 were paid out as bounty. This represents 38,055 scalps. It would be natural to expect that this slaughter would materially decrease the number of coyotes and that the sheep on our mountains would be comparatively safe. But it seems that the woods were full of them. Up to September 30, 1894, 77,252 coyotes had been killed costing the State $386,260. There is no doubt that scalps were shipped into this State from surrounding States and so the Secretary observes: "We think the experiment of attempting to exterminate all the coyotes in this State, the adjoining States and Territories and Lower California has now been tried long enough and we recommend that the law be repealed early in the session."

The Board of Examiners evidently pays for itself. Since January 1, 1893, it has saved this State $107,368 by correcting bills against the State. This amount is exclusive of bills and claims totally rejected, which amounted to $211,371 since the above mentioned time.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Fact or Fiction About Two Great Fair Awards.

A newspaper paragraph denounces as "false" the claim of a Baking Powder Company to an award at the World's Fair. What can it mean?

Certainly not Dr. Price's. Why? Because as the records show, Dr. Price's exhibited, competed and received the highest award, both at Chicago and the California Midwinter Fair. The award in California included Gold Medal. The official examiners pronounced it the strongest, the purest, the most wholesome and efficient of all baking powders. Its title and confidence is unquestioned.

Can it be the manufacturers of a New York powder, fictitiously labeled "absolutely pure," who are making "false" claims? That would be strange indeed, inasmuch as they were not even considered in the awards.

Was it Ammonia in the New York powder that prevented its makers from competing? If not what?

Cloverdale is making a big kick against the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway over what it claims to be a discrimination against that town in freights and fares and through the President of its Town Council, W. P. Ink, the Railroad Commission is asked to step in and regulate matters.

The floor managers for the Turners masquerade ball to be held in this place on the evening of Washington's birthday will be A. R. Harrison of Glen Ellen and Jas. H. Albertson of this place. Already a large number of maskers and spectators tickets have been sold and a large attendance is assured.

T. B. Wilson, brother of Robert and Wm. Wilson of this place, while engaged in whitewashing the ceiling of the pavilion in Cloverdale, on Thursday of last week, had his left optic baoly burned by a drop of hot lime which dropped off the brush into his eye. The burn, although painful, will not endanger the eye sight.

In a recent editorial the Salem, Oregon, Independent, says: "Time and again have we seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy tried and never without the most satisfactory results. Whenever we see a person afflicted with hoarseness, with a cough or cold, we invariably advise them to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; and when they do they never regret it. It always does the work and does it well." For sale by all dealers. *

Capt. P. N. Stofen, ex-County Treasurer, was in town last Saturday afternoon. His petition, asking the Legislature to reimburse him for the loss sustained by reason of the treasury vault robbery whereby nearly $8,000 of the county's funds was secured by the thief, is being numerously signed by our citizens. If the loss falls upon the Captain, who is a poor man, it will disposses him of his home and leave him entirely penniless. If assumed by the taxpayers of the State no one will feel the tax and a simple act of justice will have been done to an honest and upright man who ought not to be made to suffer financially for the wrong-doing of a professional thief.

If you want your town and valley to go ahead and thrive don't neglect one of your principal home enterprises — the INDEX-TRIBUNE. Subscribe for it, advertise in its columns and see that it gets all your job printing. It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that there are some persons in this town who make out bills against the editor each month for merchandise and other things who use bill heads and statements printed elsewhere. In other words we help to contribute to the support of some other printing office while running one ourself. This is sustaining a home enterprise with a vengeance, isn't it? Now, in all fairness, job work ought to be given to the local printing office to the end that a home enterprise be encouraged and the money paid out for the printing be spent at home. The INDEX-TRIBUNE has labored long and earnestly for town and valley and certainly deserves a fair shake at the hands of its people.

The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a lumberman is called upon to endure in the camps often produces severe colds which, if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex-manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Company, an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used this remedy for a severe cold and obtained immediate relief. This medicine prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia and insures a prompt recovery. For sale by all dealers. *

Weather and Crops.

Since the recent remarkable storm, which terminated on January 22nd, the mornings have been cold and frosty and the days warm and pleasant, if we except last Sunday. On that day a cold north wind set in about ten o'clock in the morning and blew all day increasing in velocity until nightfall when it developed into a blow that took on the proportions of a hurricane until midnight when the wind died out. The force of the wind was so great that many shade and ornamental trees that had withstood the storms of many winters were uprooted. Aside from the leveling of trees and a small amount of fencing little damage was done by old Boreas.

The frost of the past week has somewhat damaged the hay and grain fields, but for all that there will be a good yield of hay, wheat and barley in Sonoma Valley the coming season. The fields are covered with a mantle of green varying in height from six to twelve inches.

The reclaimed marsh lands south of town, although badly overflooded during the late freshet, also promise well. The water which for several days covered almost the entire Jones tract of four thousand acres, which is seeded to hay and barley, has ran off the ranch through flood gates and the tract is now almost free from water, and a fair crop is assured. The reclaimed lands belonging to Tubbs and Rose, which are also seeded to hay and barley, will yield a heavy crop this season, as usual.

The fruit outlook as near as can be determined at this season of the year is very promising and with favorable weather in March and April there ought to be a large yield.

Vineyards are also being pruned and staked and with the prospects of a fair crop ahead and the formation of the recent wine syndicate of growers our vineyardists are looking for better times the coming vintage.

The dairy interests in this valley in so far as feed is concerned never looked brighter. Feed for stock has been plentiful ever since last November, owing to the early rains and the growing weather of that month and December.

The most serious loss that has been inflicted on our farmers this winter was the loss of time caused by the long-continued storm which commenced about the middle of November and continued almost incessantly until January 22nd. During that period all out-door occupations ceased and the enforced idleness of the farmer, aside from bringing him no returns, put him back in the cultivation of his farm. Work will now have to be rushed with increased hands in order to make up for lost time.

Pruning, repairing fences and other farm work was resumed this week for the first time in two months, and if the weather continues favorable the soil, notwithstanding the soaking it received, will be in condition for the plow in a very short time

Death of Miss Nellie Carriger.

Miss Nellie Carriger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carriger of this place, died in Oakland last Sunday of consumption. The deceased, who was born and raised in this valley, attended the Sonoma public school for a number of years and was well-known to all the young people of both town and valley. She was aged 25 years and two months.

The remains were shipped from Oakland to Sonoma on Monday afternoon for interment in Mountain Cemetery, the funeral taking place Tuesday at 3 P. M., from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Van Every.

GLEN ELLEN.

A. Simoni was laid up a few days this week with a severe attack of rheumatism.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Poppe was brightened last Saturday by the arrival of a baby girl.

We are sorry to learn that Rev. W. M. Massie of Kenwood is still confined to his home with bronchitis.

Wm. Hilton left for San Francisco last Tuesday where he will remain several days attending to business.

The tall gum trees in this vicinity are being topped and the trimmings used in reparing the county roads.

John Kearney and a gang of men made some substantial repairs this week on the western approach to the iron bridge at this place.

Mr. B. F. Howard, who resides in Nun's Canyon, says that the county road in that section has been impassable for several weeks.

The employees of the Southern Pacific Railway were paid off last week with nickels, which were as plentiful around town shortly after as rabbits on the San Joaquin.

A CANNERY.

What it Costs to Erect and Operate One—The Profits.

The following figures, furnished by an experienced canneryman of Southern California, will prove especially interesting to both our fruit-raisers and business men at a time when the proposition of erecting and operating a cannery in Sonoma in time to handle this season's fruit crop is being considered by them. The figures, which are given to the San Jose Mercury, are based upon an output of 10,000 cases of fruit the first year, which would call for 250 tons of green fruit. He says:

"I enclose a statement of what a plant would cost all complete, capable of handling from 40 to 50 tons per day. Of course we would not expect to handle that much the first year, but as the acreage increased we would do a larger business and consequently put in a plant that would be sufficient for four or five years to come.

As to the building, I send you a statement as it can be built here, but in your vicinity of course lumber and all other material is a great deal cheaper than it is here and I presume it could be built for from $500 to $700 less than these figures show. I presume there are cheap idle buildings that would answer for a cannery. A cheap building will do to start with, only we want plenty of floor room. This estimate I give you has a floor room of 13,000 square feet.

As to the estimate on fruit we put it at $15 per ton. Of course that is quite low and perhaps we could not buy fruit up there at that price. Then again, I presume the rate on canned goods is cheaper than from here. Our freight from San Francisco costs us usually $100 per car of 20,000 pounds. We ship all our sugar, tin cans, labels, solder, etc., from San Francisco, so you see the difference in freight would be quite an item. So taking it all in all the chances are much more favorable for a cannery there than here.

Amount of labor and material required to finish a cannery ready for machinery: Lumber, $2,218.65; foundation $195; hardware, $63; labor $532: Total, $3,008.65.

Estimate on cost of packing 10,000 cases of canned goods: Two hundred and forty thousand cans laid down in Southern California at $29 per thousand (probably cheaper in 1895), $6,960; 5,000 cases of standards, 2,500 cases of extras, 2,500 cases of pie, 10,000 cases of shook, $1,000; nails and making cases, $200; 240 tons of fruit at $15 per ton, $3,600; 50,000 pounds of sugar at 5 cents per pound, $2,500; labor, 50 cents per case on 10,000 cases, $5,000; 240,000 labels at $2.50 per thousand, $600; insurance, $250; total, $20,110.

Interest for six months of 10 per cent per annum, $1,005.50; total cost, $21,115.50.

Selling price: 5,000 cases of standard goods, consisting of 1,500 cases of apricots at $1.25 per dozen, $3,750; 3,000 cases of peaches at $1.40 per dozen, $8,400; 500 cases of Bartlett pears at $1.40 per dozen, $1,400; 2,500 cases of extra goods, consisting of 500 cases of apricots at $4 per case, $2,000; 1,750 cases of peaches at $4.50 per case, $7,875; 250 cases of Bartlett pears at $4 per case, $1,000; 2,500 cases of pie fruit in 2½ pound cans at $1.10 per dozen, $5,500; total selling price, $29,925; total cost, $21,115.50; total profit, $8,809.50.

Important to Sportsmen.

Judge Dougherty decided a very important case last Monday, says the Santa Rosa Republican. It was the People vs. Silva, convicted of violation of Ordinance No 32, passed November 9th, 1893, by the Board of Supervisors, making it unlawful to catch or kill any fish in Russian River, or any of its tributaries with seins, gill nets, wire fence, basket, trap or set net, except between the last of April and the first day of November.

It was contended by the defendant that the ordinance was unconstitutional, mainly because, it was claimed, the Legislature had no power to delegate its legislative power to Boards of Supervisors and numerous authorities were quoted. The Judge, however, held that the act under which the Supervisors operated when they passed the ordinance was constitutional, and to support his view he quoted from the constitution of the State in Section 11, Art. 11, which says "any county, city, town or township may enforce all such local, police, sanitary and other regulations not in conflict with general laws." The Judge says the power of the county to pass such laws or ordinances is clear, as it is a police power and not in conflict with the general law.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn. says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer 'saved my life.' I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For dyspepsia, liver or kidney trouble it excels. Price 75cts.

Frederic Villiers, the world-famous war correspondent, who recently arrived in San Francisco from the battle fields of the China-Japan war, will visit Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Boyes at their delightful Agua Rica farm near this place early in March. Mr. Villiers is an old time acquaintance of Mrs. Boyes, whom he met during the Afghan war in 1876.

The people of this State have heard much of the Governor who was inaugurated recently, but little or nothing of Mrs. Budd, whom some of the newspapers describe now "as the first lady in California." The better half of the Governor is in personal appearance petite and slender, with big gray eyes, high, intelligent forehead and a mass of brown hair that she does up in the simplest possible way. She has unconventional ideas of dress, and the decollete gowns she saw while in Washington shocked her very much. She dresses exactly as she pleases in defiance of the mode, abhors social pomp and limits her calling list to her very intimate friends. She is very fond of amateur photography and life in the woods and is a good shot with rifle and shotgun.—Alameda Telegram.

Rev. H. H. Wykoff, formerly pastor of the Congregational Church in this city, but for the past few years pastor of the Green street Congregational Church of San Francisco, resigned from the latter church last Sunday. The resignation was due to the fact that Mr. Wykoff had received an appointment as Secretary of the Pacific Coast Congregational Church Building Society. The headquarters of the building society are in New York. There are only two similar offices in connection with the Congregational Church. One is held by Rev. L. H. Cobb, D. D., of New York and the other by Rev. C. H. Taintor of Chicago. Mr. Wykoff will make his headquarters in San Francisco, but his field of work will be from Mexico to British Columbia and as far east as Montana. His duty will be the raising of money for church building. He will do no regular preaching, but will have access to all the Congregational pulpits in the State. Whenever he speaks it will be for the extension work. He will receive a good salary.

Patrons of Royal Baking Powder

Are advised to write their orders upon their grocer, specifying the fact that ROYAL BAKING POWDER is wanted, and no other.

Surreptitious efforts are being made by the manufacturers of inferior brands of baking powder to induce clerks and carriers to substitute their goods where consumers are using and desire the Royal.

There is no other compound or mixture that can take the place of ROYAL BAKING POWDER, or that will make cake, biscuit and bread so light, sweet, palatable and wholesome.

Examine the label, and if another brand has been sent you instead of the ROYAL, send it back.

The Sonoma public school reopens Monday after a vacation of seven weeks with Miss Mandilla Gingery as principal and Miss Susie Shaw and Miss Minnie Cook assistants.

The condition of Mrs. B. F. Campbell, who has been lying very ill at her home in the eastern suburbs of town for several weeks, is considered very precarious by her physician, Dr. Walliser. Mrs. Dr. Steuart of Santa Rosa was called in consultation yesterday.

Does every one know that if the hands are rubbed with a stick of celery after peeling onions the odor will be entirely removed.

That a small round mirror upon which to set a jar of some one variety of flowers—chrysanthemums, roses or tulips, etc., is a prettier center piece for the home table than any amount of elaborate embroidery.

The late Nellie Carriger, who died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. ex-Sheriff Harry Morse in Oakland last Sunday, was conscious to the last. She had the best of medical skill and attention and everything that was possible was done to save her life but without avail. The deceased was a victim of la grippe contracted two years ago which developed into consumption. The last request of the dying girl was to be dressed in a white gown and buried in Mountain Cemetery from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Van Every of this place, who are old friends of the family.

Miss Alice McRoberts of San Francisco, who has a large circle of friends in Sonoma Valley, was married Thursday night to Rev. Henry B. Collier, rector of the Church of the Advent in that city. The ceremony was performed in the church by Right Rev. Bishop Nichols. The marriage is described by the city press as being a grand affair. Miss Zarifa Howe, daughter of Hon. Robt. Howe of this place, acted as bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a gown of ivory white satin en traine. The skirt was perfectly plain. The corsage was high with elbow buffant sleeves and a spray of orange blossoms was arranged from the left shoulder across the front of the waist. The veil was caught in the coiffure with orange blossoms. The gowns of the maid-of-honor and the bridesmaid were alike in make, but the former wore blue and the latter pink. They were of walking length and the waists pleated and high. They carried bouquets of red and white roses.

In Switzerland a milkmaid or man gets better wages if gifted with a good voice, because it has been discovered that a cow will yield one-fifth more milk if soothed during the process of milking by a pleasant melody.

If you have black or tinted cambrics or muslins which you hesitate to trust to the laundress give them a first dip yourself into water with which you have stirred a teaspoonful of black pepper. This is also said to save gray and buff linen from spots when rinced in the first water.

SKATING IN CHINA.

Its Utility In Carrying on the Internal Trade of the Country.

Skating is a business with the Chinaman rather than a sport, for he contrives to turn frozen canals into convenient highways for his merchandise, as they do in Holland and Denmark. Passengers are carried in sledge chairs, propelled by an active Celestial on skates, and there is no more enjoyable way of making a tour round the 17 miles of wall which encircles the ancient city of Peking than in a sledge of this description. The canals afford facilities for locomotion which are not to be found in the dirty streets, crowded as they are with overworked humanity.

It is not likely that the Celestials will ever astonish the world with a rival to our Smarts or Sees, for they do not aim at great speed of progression, but they are nevertheless fairly qualified adepts in their way, and there have been some efforts made to introduce ice yachts out there, which would indeed be a grand thing not only for sport, but for the transport of goods at a time when all traffic is practically as a standstill, owing to the impassable condition of the wretched causeways which do duty in China for highroads. There are over 70 miles of the Pei-Ho annually covered with ice several feet thick, bank to bank, extending from Tung-Chau, the port of Peking, to the mouth of the river at Taku, in the gulf of Chili. What a noble race course this would form for our fen skaters!

It is not commonly known that the capital of China is icebound for five months out of the 12, or that the stolid looking Chinese could ever be graceful skaters, yet both these facts are well established. The Chinese use a very inferior style of skate, of their own manufacture—a mere chunk of wood arranged to tie on the shoe and shod with a rather broad strip of iron. There is no attempt at elegance of design or at anything approaching a spring fastening. A pair of "Acmes," when shown by the writer to some native students in the Chinese capital, produced unbounded astonishment and admiration by their neatness and strength. On the other hand, the very cheapness and simplicity of the common native made article tend to make skating general.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE INTELLIGENT HORSE.

In the Cavalry Charge His Own Fury Is Half the Battle.

The fiery spirit of the horse has been greatly subdued in servitude, but is not entirely conquered. The hunter and the charger, when in the excitement of the chase and battle, are far from being mere dummies on which their master rides. The judgment of a good hunter is oftentimes better than that of his town bred rider, who, by attempted guidance, brings both to grief.

Houssay relates that wild horses meeting an equine friend in harness are wont to gambol about as though inviting him again to freedom, and that if his driver tries forcing them away with his whip they will crowd closer, bite the traces and kick the vehicle until they have released their captive brother. The Tyrolese, in 1809, so history tells, took a number of Bavarian horses and used them in their service, whereupon they suddenly turned back to their old ranks, and nothing would stop them. The civil war furnished instances of this nature.

Dr. Romanes, on the authority of Dr. John Rae, quotes an instance that occurred several years ago. A Shetland pony, when purchased, had never been shod. It was shod at once. Later it came to the blacksmith shop unattended and unhaltered, and when driven away returned again. The smith finally found one shoe gone. He promptly shod the foot, when the pony stamped it a few times, as if settling the shoe into better position, and then, with a happy little neigh, trotted off home.

Professor Claypole of Ohio tells of a Toronto horse that was feeding beside a stream, over which its mistress started on a foot plank. She fell in where the water was deep. Instantly the animal trotted up, put down his head, and seizing her held her with his teeth until help came. Even a mule, that is generally thought to move only when clubbed and then in the wrong direction, is not a whit less knowing.—Lewiston Journal.

The Editorial Page.

C. J. S. writes to find out why the editorial page of a newspaper is always leaded.

To this question there are two answers: First, in the early days it was customary to pay editors by the line and to permit them to occupy only so much space. The leads were consequently put in to prevent them from earning a decent living; hence the expression so much favored by Rushville journalists, "The poor editor."

Second, it has probably been noticed that it is only the most important news in the paper that is leaded, and these leads are therefore put on the editorial page to fool the people into believing that they are important and to induce them to read them.

This should be labeled "A Joke."—Omaha World-Herald.

A Lively Imagination.

A peripatetic phonograph exhibitor in Holland showed a lively imagination recently. During his performance the machine was heard to say "Halt!" in a loud, authoritative tone. "That," said the exhibitor proudly, in response to the question naturally put, "is the voice of Napoleon Bonaparte giving an order at the battle of Waterloo."—Springfield Republican.

HINDOO PROVERBS.

Bits of East Indian Philosophy Expressed In Pungent Epigrams.

A cluster of sarcastic Indian proverbs is given in the columns of the Madras Mail. However patient the common people of India may be, they give in their proverbs expression to their feelings and indulge freely in satire at the expense of those who trouble them. That the powerful should oppress the weak is no new thing in the history of any land, and in India it is expressed by the proverb, "Big fish eat little ones." A "Jack in office" suddenly raised to power, which he uses unwisely, is spoken of as "A water carrier reigns for two days and a half." The boaster who has failed in his plans is directed to "rub the arms of your brethren," a proverb the meaning of which does not appear on the surface. It refers to the custom of rubbing the arms of successful wrestlers as a mode of congratulation on the victory gained. The proud boaster is thus ironically told to congratulate others, not himself. The official who takes bribes is said to "wear silver spectacles." The miserly and mean are held in great contempt, and the proverbs regarding them are numerous. "Come to your funeral pyre; wood is cheap," is a satire on the man who fears to spend all that is needed on the necessaries of life.

A woman who is ready to quarrel, as the village woman of the lower orders too frequently is, finds herself rebuked in, "She quarrels with the passing breeze." The woman retorts by speaking of a quarrelsome husband as "better out than at home," and of the henpecked husband she says he is "a woman's kingdom." Affected politeness is described by, "During ceremonial observances the train went off." Two persons were going by train. One said to the other, "Sir, pray enter." "After you, sir." "No, you be pleased to go first." And away went the train and left the overpolite friend behind. When politeness passes into obsequiousness, it is said, "The mouth is not sweetened by saying 'sweetmeats.'" Housekeepers in England are familiar with the cat as a scapegoat. The monkey in India takes the place of the cat, and to the man who tries to conceal his fault it is said, "Accidents in the stable are laid on the monkey's head." "The Indian crow is proverbial for its cunning, which gives rise to the proverb, "This scheme will scare crows," and refers to the clever plans of a cunning man, able to outwit a crow. "A tongue under a tongue" fitly expresses the double tongued or false man.

A "DON'T" FOR BRUSH BOYS.

The Tailor Tells How the Coat Collar Is Quickly Ruined.

The most difficult thing to fit on a man is a coat collar, and it is the easiest thing to get out of shape, except perhaps the knees of the trousers. A tailor molds and shapes a collar with his hands and hot goose to conform with the measurements he has taken of the shape of an individual's shoulders, and it does not take a great deal of ill usage to destroy his work.

"The worst enemy a coat collar has," said the tailor, "is the colored boy who brushes your clothes in the barber shop, hotel or sleeping car. When he helps you on with your overcoat, he reaches under for your coattails, grasps the overcoat collar with the other hand and gives your undercoat two or three smart jerks, which pulls the collar down and away from the neck and bunches it on the shoulders, and the overcoat finishes the work of destroying its shape. This should never be allowed under any consideration.

"The proper way to keep the coat collar in place is to shrug your shoulders forward after you have put the coat on. The collar will then fall into place on your neck; the cloth will adjust itself to the shape of your shoulders and stay there. Don't pull the collar about, and don't, above all, allow the brush boy to pull your coat out of shape under the pretense of getting your overcoat on your shoulders."

Brush boys will please note.—Kansas City Star.

The Season of Suicides.

Spring is the season for suicides as well as for sales. People prefer for this purpose, as statistics show, day to night and Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday to Saturday and Sunday.

In a word, suicides prefer the early part of the week, month and year. It would follow seemingly that anybody with a melancholic friend should look after him carefully on the first Monday in May.

Men kill themselves two, three or four times more often than women, except in Spain. Women generally "do it beautifully," men crudely.

Saxony is the most suicidal country in Europe, and the least so is—the "unhappy counthry!" Ireland's rate is 24 per 1,000,000 to Saxony's 469.—Westminster Gazette.

The Pope's Choir.

The finest choir in the world is that of St. Peter's, in Rome, known as the pope's choir. There is not a female voice in it, and yet the most difficult orstorios and sacred music are rendered in such a manner as to make one think that Adelina Patti is leading. The choir is composed of 60 boys. They are trained for the work from the time they get control of their vocal cords, and some of the best singers are not over 9 years old. At the age of 17 they are dropped from the choir.—Rome Letter.

The battle of the Emperors was fought at Austerlitz, 1805. The emperors present were Napoleon, Francis of Austria and Alexander of Russia. Over 170,000 men were actually engaged in the battle, and of this number 23,000 were killed or wounded, or 13 per cent of the whole.

Albert Durer's wife was stingy and kept him at work day and night for fear they would starve. His biography says, "She tormented him until he dried up like a bundle of straw."
